HOW JOE LOST HIS ARM.

On the Tombigbee river so bright, I was born,

In a hut made of barks of the bright yellow corn,

And 'twas there that I met my Julia so true,

And I rowed her about in my gumtree canoe,

Singing, row away, row over the waters so blue,

Like a feather we'll float in my gumtree canoe.

The clerk of the Pretty Jane had a mellow voice, and blended sweetly with it was little Jennie's childish treble.

He sat upon the deck of the little steamboat gazing around on the bright waters of the Tombigbee as the sun danced on them, gazing intently, and smiling absently to himself.

He was a man of about thirty, and his right coat sleeve was empty and pinned upon his heart.

Little Jennie leaned upon his knee, staring him intently in the face in a way that children have. She pushed her broad brimmed hat back from her eyes so that she might stare the better. The hat was a queerly shaped palm-tree structure, for this was in '63, and clothes were at a premium. She was the child of one of the passengers, and between her and the clerk quite a friendship had sprung up.

"And did you sure enough meet your Julia here on the Tombigbee?" asked the child, stroking the empty sleeve with a pitiful touch.

"Yes," said the clerk, roused from his reverie and smiling down on the eager little face; "I have often taken her rowing on the Tombigbee before the war, when I had my other arm."

"How nice!" said Jennie. "How nice!

And in a gumtree canoe?"

"Well, I wasn't particular as to the kind of canoe, so it was a canoe," said he, smiling.

"And your Julia ain't named Julia,

but Mary Jane, after all," said the child.

"Yes," said he, "but she's just as sweet as if her name was Julia, though

'twouldn't fit in the song so well."

"No, you couldn't say, 'I rowed my

Mary Jane so true.' 'Twould make the song too long legged."

"True," said he, laughing, "but that makes no difference. I think of her while I sing it, so that it seems as if it was her name."

"Well, Mr. Perkins," said Jennie, "tell me why haven't you married your Julia, if you've been rowing her around in your gumtree canoe these ever so many years?"

"You see," said the mate smiling, "my Julia couldn't make up her mind that she loved me till the war broke out and I volunteered; then she said directly she'd marry me, but 'twas too late then;

I had to go off to fight."

"You had both of your arms then!" interrupted Jennie; "you was born with

'em?"

"Of course, child. Did you ever hear of any one born with one arm? Nature don't ever make no such cobbled, lopped work as that."

"Well, if you had both of your arms then, I don't see why she wouldn't have you."

"Bless you, child, everybody had plenty of arms then; that was no inducement to take a fellow. But, as I

General Powning returned yesterday from a visit to the western slope.

A meeting of the stockholders of the South Side Drain Ditch Company will be held to-day.

S. Emrich is offering his entire stock of goods at cost, for cash. See his ad. in another column.

The attention of the ladies is directed to the announcement of Miss A. Motley in the 50-cent column.

Professor H. K. Clapp of the University was called to Carson yesterday as a witness in the Stevenson will case.

Senators Foley and Emmitt of Washoe and LaGrave of Humboldt came down from the Capital last night and will return this morning.

The Silver State says the jury in the case of Robert Burge, who was indicted for assault on James Ritchie, with intent to do great bodily injury, after being out an hour, brought in a verdict of assault.

The dozen or more chambermaids at the Baldwin Hotel, San Francisco, have gone out on a strike. They were ordered out of bed an hour earlier to sweep the hallways and do other work previously performed by Chinese.

The Independent says the weather continues very stormy in Eastern Nevada. There is more snow in the mountains than there was at this time last year, and the prospects for a favorable season are very encouraging.

The Union saloon was burglarized Wednesday night. The burglars effected an entrance from the balcony through the transom. They broke the money drawer open and secured some small change, two silver watches and a pistol.

The Appeal says C. V. Wiley, who has been running the Dairy Restaurant for the last month, was found dead in his bed at the St. Charles Hotel at Carson yesterday morning. An ounce bottle half-filled with morphine was found under his pillow.

What has become of LaGrave's Australian Ballot Act? It was the first bill introduced in the Senate and it passed that body two or three weeks ago, and went to the Assembly. Is it to meet the fate of the Free Coinage bill in the House of Representatives?

The JOURNAL acknowledges the receipt of complimentary tickets to the 13th annual camp-fire and ball of Custer Post, No. 5, G. A. R., which is to take place at Armory Hall, Carson, Tuesday evening, March 10th, and hopes the affair will be a social and financial success.

At W. H. Haines' place above town a Scotch terrier is nursing four or five young rabbits. Her puppies were taken from her and she found the rabbits, carried them to a secure place and adopted them as her own and cares for them as diligently and with as much solicitude as if they were her own offspring.

A writer, who evidently had some experience in the business of drinking as a fine art, says: "The secret is never to attempt it in conjunction with any other career you may have in view. If you propose to make it your whole existence, it is wonderful how short and useless your life may be at a very small expense."

Assemblyman Thompson has introduced a bill reducing the salary of the Governor to $4,000 a year, the Secretary of State to $2,000; the Controller to $2,000; the Treasurer to $2,000; the Surveyor General to $2,000, one half payable out of the school fund; the Clerk of the Supreme Court, who shall be ex-officio State Librarian, curator of the State Museum and Clerk of the State Library, $1,800; the Lieutenant Governor, who shall be ex-officio Superintendent of Public Instruction, $1,800 a year and $3 per day of actual service as President of the Senate. The Act is to take effect in 1895.

A DRUMMER SUICIDES.

Julius Dreyfus Sends a Bullet Through His Brain.

SUSANVILLE, Cal., March 5, 1891.
ED. STATE JOURNAL: Julius Dreyfus, who has represented several different tailoring establishments, of San Francisco, in northern California, committed suicide here this morning by shooting himself through the head. He died instantly.

Despondency, through reverses of fortune, it appears, led him to commit the act. He had been here for five months, and had acted strangely during the past few weeks.

It is said that he leaves a family in San Francisco. He was a former resident of Grass Valley, California, and supposed to be about 55 years of age.

Julius Dreyfus was well known in Nevada. His brother Jacob was engaged in business at Austin for many years. He formerly resided in Grass Valley, California, but for several years past was traveling salesman for a San Francisco house.

The price of the JOURNAL to city subscribers, delivered by carrier, will henceforth be fifteen cents a week, payable to the carrier. This, considering that it furnishes the very latest news by telegraph makes the JOURNAL the cheapest paper in Nevada.

A RICH GOLD MINE.

Ore That Averages Over $300 to the Ton.

The Aurum mine in Central District, near Mill City, Humboldt county, of which J. F. Clark is the principal owner, is said by the Silver State to be the richest mine in Nevada. That paper says: "The shaft is down 240 feet. At a depth of 170 the owner ran cross-drifts both north and south on the ledge, which averages from fourteen to eighteen and twenty inches in width, both in the shaft and in the drift. From the drifts they continued down the main shaft until at the present time it is down 240 feet. The ore at the bottom of the shaft is much richer than at any other place in the mine. Parties working in the mine inform us that it is impossible to break a piece of ore the size of one's thumb in which free gold is not visible, and that gold can be seen in every piece of ore taken from the bottom of the shaft. We were informed that the ore from above the 170-foot level worked over $300 to the ton in gold, to say nothing about the concentrations. Mr. Clark, on several occasions, has worked a few tons of ore at his water mill on the Humboldt river, at St. Mary's, and cleaned up a few thousand dollars, enough to pay running expenses. He is now piling up his ore and will build a mill at the mine this coming summer, as good judges claim there is over $100,000 worth of ore in sight. He is a hard working and industrious man, and we know of no one who is more deserving of success than Frank Clark."

For your note, letter, legal and foolscap paper, patronize C. J. Brookins, who also carries writing tablets of all styles and sizes.

THE DIRECT TAX.

Draw Downs for Several Old Nevadans.

The Virginia Chronicle says of the Direct Tax Act which recently became a law: "The bill to refund the money collected on income taxes under the Direct Tax Act of 1861, passed both houses and is now in the hands of the President. The money appropriated by the bill to meet individual claims is to be held by the State authorities, six years being allowed for presenting such claims. As we understand it those who paid income taxes during the existence of the law will be entitled to their money back upon making proper presentation of their claims. There are probably quite a number of persons in this State who are entitled to 'draw downs' and to whom the refunded money will be God sends. The writer of this remembers having been assessed for the money for which he sold a mining claim, although when the tax became payable he had sunk it in other claims and had to borrow the soap to pay the collector, and there are probably many others in the State who had the same experience."

The writer of this was also taxed by the Federal Assessor on the proceeds of a mining sale though he had invested the greater part of the amount in developing other mining property at the time the assessment was made, but it was 'all for our country,' you know.

A rich lady of Atchinson, Kas., made her will recently and in it she says that all her fortune is to be given to her husband at the end of five years, if he can prove that he has visited her grave ten times during that period.

followed me. Right toward the blazing line we ran.
"All at once I saw the colonel, who was riding by me, grasp the colors, for they were falling. I looked and saw that my hand, my whole arm was gone, and I hadn't felt it! I grabbed the flag in my left hand.
"I can carry the colors yet, colonel," I said. "I don't feel any pain."
"I ran on some fifty steps, when the blood began spouting from my shoulder. I dropped. Joe Ashe, one of the color guards, snatched the flag, and they all rushed on.
"I fell senseless. I never knew another thing till weeks after, when I woke up one day in Chimborazo hospital and found some funny looking ladies in black bonnets, that the boys called 'the sisters,' bending over me. If it hadn't been for their good nursing, I should have died."
Perkins ceased. He had been so carried away by the interest he felt in his own narrative that he had gone quite beyond his auditor.
"But tell me, Joe," Jennie eagerly asked—she had been impatiently waiting for an opportunity for some minutes—"tell me, did you ever find your arm that you dropped?"
"No; to be sure not. I never went to look for it."
"You couldn't fasten it on again, then?"
"Of course not, child. I am not a jointed doll."
"What a pity you couldn't," said the child. "What a pity! And how do you manage to dress yourself and tie your cravat and shoes?" she asked, for she had been burning to make these inquiries ever since she had seen the one armed confederate.
"It was awkward at first, but I learned at last to do it with the help of my teeth."
"But how when you get old and lose 'em?" said Jennie, who was of an investigating mind.
"Providence will raise me up some other way," he said with a pathetic smile. "I'll have my wife to wait on me."
"To be sure, I forgot; Miss Mary Jane will. What did she say?"
"I got one of the sisters to write her for me, and I set her free. I said I wouldn't bind her to a poor cripple like me."
"And she said no, sir-ree! I 'spose," cried Jennie, full of fiery zeal for her new friend.
"Something to that effect," said Joe, smiling.
"She wrote me that she loved me more with one arm than she ever had done with two. And whenever I could get home she was ready." Here Joe's eyes filled and he gazed steadily in the water.
"Well, now, Joe," said Jennie, who was suddenly struck with a bright idea, "maybe if you would lose both arms she'd love you better and better."
"I believe I'm satisfied with what she feels now," said Joe, laughing.
"But why haven't you married?" continued Jennie, pursuing her investigations.
"Because I first had to get well, and then I had to get something to do. I had been a mechanic, and I couldn't work at my trade with my left hand. So Capt. Ramsey gave me a place on his boat, and I've been trying to learn how to write, so that I can keep his books. I think I'm doing pretty well. See."
He drew from his pocket a little blank book in which were scrawled divers hieroglyphics, at which he gazed complacently.
"Why, yes," said Jennie approvingly. "There's a 't' with the cross mark, and there is 'k' with his broken back, and that's an 'i.' I know him by his eye-brow. You see I can read a little," she said proudly.
"So I see," said he, laughing and putting up his book. "Now I must go. The sun has set. It is time for me to see after things for the night."
He stroked Jennie's curly head with his left hand, and walked away, softly singing in his mellow voice, "My Own Mary Ann."—Paul Grant in Atlanta Constitution.
